Finding a good Orlando limo service can be tricky. With so many companies and cars to choose from, how do you pick the right one?

We know it may seem confusing, but by asking a few simple questions, a great Orlando Limo company can be found. In this article is everything you need to know when looking into different Orlando limo services. From licenses to insurance, we have got it covered.

Licenses & Associations

Every Orlando limousine service should have a license number is issued by the City of Orlando and allows a limo company to operate legally. In addition, a reputable Orlando Limo company should belong to an association such as The Greater Orlando Limousine Association. Finally, check the Better Business Bureau for past complaints regarding your prospective Orlando limo service.

Years in Business

Business Experience is important. Orlando Limo Services with some time under their belts are usually better than start-ups. If you run across a new business, ask about the operator's background. Some of the finest boutique companies are relatively new but are operated by managers and drivers with years of limousine experience.

Insurance

Every car in the fleet is required have commercial vehicle insurance. Sedans are required to have a minimum of $300,000 in coverage. Vehicles that carry eight passengers or more should carry at least 1 million.

Live Inspection

Check out the limo in person. If the vehicle isn't available, ask the company to email photos (or watch the videos on this website). It's important to inspect the vehicle and verify the make, model, and amenities inside the limousine. We offer only newer, clean limousines.

Referrals

One of the best ways to find a good limo service in Orlando, Florida is through word of mouth. If a friend has used a company on multiple occasions and is happy with the service, use this limousine company. Above all else, trustworthy first hand referrals are the best way to select a limousine company in Orlando, Florida.

Driver Gratuity

Most limousine services automatically charge 15% to 20% gratuity. If the driver gratuity isn't included on the bill or its categorized as a "service charge" move on to another service. More than likely, the driver is being cheated and you're dealing with a disreputable Orlando limo company.

Hours of Operation

Someone should be able to take your call 24 hours a day. If your dealing with a limo service that handles airport transfers, dispatchers should be in the office around the clock. If the companies primary business is weddings, proms, and nights out on the town, an overnight emergency number is acceptable. No matter the situation, your limousine service should always be accessible.

Fleet Size

The number of cars a service has doesn't necessarily predict quality, but it will give you some insight into the company. Small companies offer highly personalized service and typically focus on one type of service such as airport transfers. Medium sized services have a variety vehicles and do everything from airport pick ups to proms. Legre Orlando limousine companies handle corporate accounts and are made up of Town cars and Stretch limousines. We also have exotic, one of a kind limousines for you to choose from.

Driver Screening

By law, any chauffeur hired by a limo service must take a drug test and have a physical. Good companies follow the state mandates, but also run criminal background checks on prospective employees. In addition to these safeguards, a new driver should have a clean driving record and be familiar with the company's service area.
